Defense Claims Trial Is Violation
Of Right of Free Speech

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President Coolidge became the mainstay of Colonel "Billy" Mitchell's defense who went on trial before a court-martial here today for his verbal hammering of the national air defense. Words uttered by the President were repeated seeking to show that when Colonel Mitchell told the country that the air service was inadequate he only did what army and navy officers had been advised to do. No crime was committed it was pointed out as he was only obeying an order of his chief executive.

The quotations of the President brought into evidence were from a speech delivered to the graduating class of Annapolis last June.

Representative Frank Reid of Illinois defense counsel further stated that the continuance of the trial of Col. Mitchell would be a violation of the right of free speech. President Coolidge was again quoted as having assured this right during his inaugural address on March 4, 1925.

Bringing the statements of the President into the trial rather upset the court. Judge-Advocate Moreland demanded a copy of the addresses referred to and when they were supplied the court was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

No testimony was taken today although the court was in session from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. The entire time was taken with the organization of the court and the reading of the specifications of the charges.

FRANCE TO HAVE A NEW CABINET

By FRANK E. MASON.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Paul Painleve tonight agreed to accept the invitation of President Doumergue to form a new cabinet. He announced his decision at 8 o'clock. He stated that it has been decided that Foreign Minister Briand will remain in that post and that Louis Loucheur will be asked to become Minister of Finance.

If Loucheur accepts the Finance Ministry Painleve will retain the war portfolio.

Six ministers of the outgoing cabinet will not be included in the new government, according to tonight's plans. These, of course, include Caillaux.

Insisting that he is more valuable to the country as president of the Chamber of Deputies, former Premier Herriot has declined Painleve's offer of a portfolio.

Painleve is continuing his negotiations late tonight and hopes to complete his cabinet for presentation to President Doumergue and the Chamber tomorrow afternoon.

Caillaux has gone to his home in the country for a rest of several weeks. The left party today took a stand in favor of the capital levy, which is interpreted here as being virtual warning to the new Finance Minister that he must incorporate the levy in his program. While Painleve has been willing to make concessions in this direction he has not been understood as willing to go all the way on the capital levy. Whether he is now prepared to do so is questionable.

BIG BUSINESS BUT PROFITS GO ELSEWHERE

(INSTALLMENT NO. 13)

A big vessel was taking on cargo for the far east at the municipal dock this week. Signs of activity as a general thing are good omens, but in this case, the same old thing that has been happening for the past five years took place again.

Although tons of goods were handled, all of the cream went to the Richmond Terminal Corporation, whose lease has expired, but which is still permitted to hold sway at the municipal docks without any recompense to the City of Richmond.

The taxpayers of the City of Richmond furnished the money to construct and equip these two docks but a couple of San Francisco men, and it is rumored some local men, are reaping all of the profits.

The City of Richmond is facing steady deficits, with everything at stake, while the Richmond Terminal Corporation, is making profits large enough so that it is profitable for them to pay an income tax on $14,000.

Members of Terminal companies, when you speak to them about the municipal wharf, shrug their shoulders, and have but little to say with the exception, that they cannot understand why any company is not willing to pay the municipality the share of the proceeds from the operation of the wharf to which it is entitled.

It has been common rumor for some time that when the Richmond Terminal corporation was first organized, some of the city employees, had interests in the company, but afterward disposed of them, on the advice of an attorney, that while it might not be strictly illegal for them to be interested in such a company, that it would not look well to the general public.

Who is the boss of the Richmond Terminal Corporation at the wharf, and who directs the loading, will be taken up and discussed in a future article.

Who is protecting the interest of Richmond at the municipal docks? The fact remains however, that there are many reputable terminal companies operating in the bay section and on the coast, who would be willing to enter into an agreement with the city, that would insure Richmond a definite profit, instead of a loss.

Rube Dance Of Sciots Will Be Imposing Event

Rumors that a rift which has existed between two well known Sciots of the city is to be patched up at the big barn dance at East Shore park on Saturday night were confirmed last night when the cause of all the trouble was turned over to Deputy Sheriff J. W. Smiley for safe keeping until Saturday night.

Our camera man caught a snap of the cause of all the controversy as it was being coaxed into a coop to await the decision.

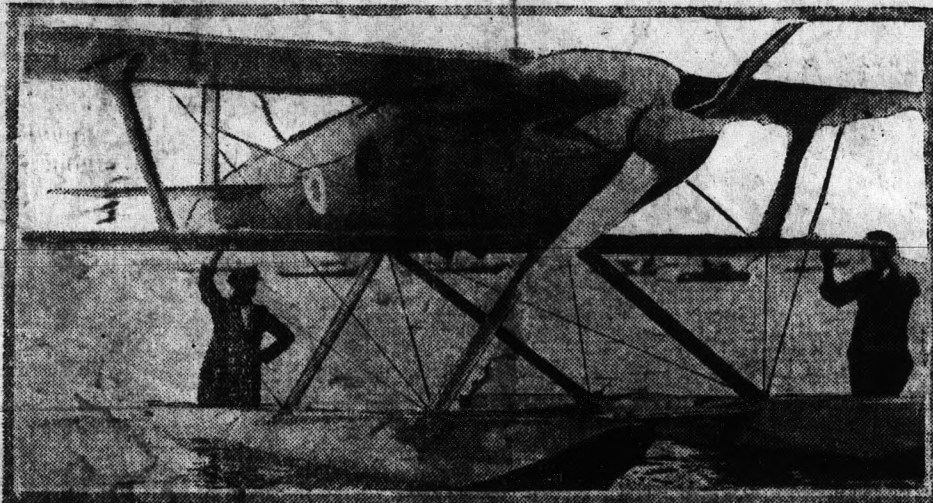

No judge was ever called upon to decide a more pathetic case than that of this barnyard idol. Raised from a pup on only the choicest of tid bits his identity was mixed up in some unknown way and now two

POSSEMAN NOW SUSPECTED IN EUREKA CASE

EUREKA, Oct. 28.—Investigation into the slaying of Harry Sweet and Carmen Wagner suddenly veered in a new direction here today when suspicion was fastened on another man, said to have been a member of the searching posse and to have testified at the inquest.

Expert woodsmen told sheriff's officers and the district attorney that analysis of the double crime indicates that a white man was responsible and not either of the two half-breed Indians now in custody.

Attorney Blaine McGowan of San Francisco, visited Walter David, one of the half-breeds arrested, after an appeal was made to the superior court for a writ of habeas corpus. Judge Selver ruled that David had a right to see his attorney and censured the "third degree" methods which had kept the man from all counsel for several days.

McGowan expressed the opinion, after consultation with David, who was his ranch foreman, that David did not commit the crime. He asserted that David did not believe his half-brother, Jack Ryan, also in custody, had anything to do with it.

Bobbed Hair Starts In This Issue

Today the RECORD-HERALD offers its readers one of the greatest stories of the modern age that has ever been written. "Bobbed Hair" is the product of the minds of twenty of the country's greatest authors.

The story has been screened and is one of the years greatest pictures. Don't forget the story starts today on page 2 of the RECORD-HERALD; the following installments will be found in the same place every morning.

START CLEANUP IN EMERYVILLE

EMERYVILLE, Oct. 28.—The war on the Emeryville bootlegging ring was reopened early this morning when twelve prohibition agents made a raid on the town that resulted in the arrest of one man and the seizure of several hundred gallons of "jackass."

The raiders arrived in Emeryville shortly after 5 o'clock this morning, led by Agent C. A. Aslin. They surrounded the town immediately and at a signal swept down on a number of suspected resorts. According to Aslin the raid was anticipated, for in nearly every place visited the raiding parties found evidence of a hasty removal of evidence.

In the establishment of Roos Kleis, 1040 Forty-first street, agents broke into the house, where they found the owner attempting to destroy more than 300 gallons of whiskey. He was taken into custody.

Moseheart Has Hallowe'en Party

Richmond chapter, Women of Mooseheart Legion, entertained members and Moose of Richmond at a Halloween party in Moose hall last night. The decorations of the hall and everything else connected with the affair were carried out in true Halloween style. Mrs. Ethel Pendleton headed the arrangement committee.

All members of the chapter are especially urged to be on hand next Wednesday evening as at that time officers who will guide the organization during the next year will be nominated. Mrs. Valie Scholler, senior regent, presided over the lodge room session, which was devoted to regular business. The mystery package was taken away by Mrs. W. W. Scott.

GOTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Over two hundred guests helped celebrate the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George Herrick last evening in the Richmond clubhouse. Four generations of the family were represented in Mr. and Mrs. Herrick, their daughter, Mrs. A. C. Burdick, their granddaughter, Mrs. D. A. Newcome and their great-granddaughter Francis Winifred Newcome.

The table was attractively decorated in two shades of lavender and a good luck cake which was made in the shape of a horse-shoe was served. The cake was made by Mrs. Herrick.

Denny Shaw furnished the music for the evening and the following program finished the evenings entertainment:

Recitations—Virginia Scragg. Piano solo—Dorothy Mickey. Recitations—Silvia Klineburg. Recitations—Zo Hollenbaugh. A beautiful diamond solitaire was presented to Mrs. Herrick by her husband in honor of the day and the couple received many congratulations and good wishes from their friends.

Trusted Employee Admits Gold Theft

SELBY, Oct. 28.—Douglas Badham, 45, trusted employee of the American Smelting and Refining company at Selby, was arrested yesterday by B. C. Stannard, manager of the bullion department of the plant, then Badham confessed to the theft of $300 in gold chips from the bricks turned out by the plant.

Badham said he took the gold to San Francisco to be melted and Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey is making an investigation to follow the trail of the gold. Other arrests may also be made, Hoey intimated.

Badham a veteran employee of the company, is said by Hoey to have admitted the strong temptation he constantly faced to have his share of the fabulous wealth that passed through his hands to enable him to provide luxuries for his family of seven children.

A three weeks tour of Europe in which he visited Switzerland, France and Italy, has been completed by Mrs. Fred Gianella of El Cerrito. She was accompanied by Mrs. Louis Gianella of San Francisco, who is her sister-in-law. Relatives were visited by the ladies in Switzerland.

PETITIONS FOR ANNEXATION TO BE CIRCULATED

Realizing the importance of immediate action petitions calling for an election on the question of Annexing the Richmond Annex to Richmond are to be circulated at once according to the annexation committee of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce. It is hoped to have sufficient signatures to the petition by next Monday night so that the matter may be presented to the Richmond City Council for action.

That the signatures will be forthcoming is indicated by the straw vote, which has been taken among the residents of the Annex by the Chamber of Commerce. Of the votes sent out 88 were returned with 54 voting for the annexation and 34 against. Under the law the signature of twenty-five per cent of the voters of a section are all that is necessary to call an election. This means that only 52 signatures will be necessary.

If the signatures are obtained and the petitions presented to the city council for action the next move will be to call an election of the qualified voters in the district. Of the vote cast at this election a majority must be for the annexation. The matter is then presented to the city council who may admit the section by ordinance without calling a general city election. The matter is however subject to referendum.

Decision to take immediate action was made at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce held yesterday. The annexation committee consisting of M. A. Hayes and Fred Newsum was instructed to circulate the petitions at once. These petitions will probably be out this morning.

Other routine matters of the Chamber of Commerce were taken up at the meeting. Mrs. Helen Kingsbury, assistant secretary of the chamber reported on the activities of the chamber. It was indicated that the temporary method of handling the business of the chamber by a committee of the directors during the interim of appointing a new secretary was working out successfully.

Golett Witnesses Passing The Buck

The defendants in the Golett oil stock swindle are continuing to "pass the buck." Franklin P. Davis took the witness stand in Superior Judge Fred V. Wood's court yesterday. C. E. Peacock, who preceded him on the stand referred to Davis as the source of all his information concerning the deal. He also said Davis was the source of his supply of stock.

Now Davis is referring to E. E. Reeves. It was Reeves who first told him of the supposed $800,000,000 merger of fourteen oil companies, a merger engineered by E. L. Doherty, according to the story told by the defendants to their prospective investors, Davis said.

Davis declared that Reeves told him that James Gough was the active agent, acting as confidential representative of Doherty. Davis said that he had known Reeves for years and had confidence in his statements. He asked permission to invest in the scheme, Davis testified. He denied that he had ever profited by the sale of the stock.

He said that he did not meet Gough, who was indicted with the defendants, pleaded guilty and has been sentenced to San Quentin, until some time after his arrival in Oakland and that the meeting was most casual. He was always referred to as Jim by Reeves, Davis said.

James Cravath of the Pioneer Electric company has returned from the annual convention of illuminating engineers at Chicago and a visit to Detroit and other eastern cities. He was gone a month.

MINISTER WITHHOLDS CABLE

British, French and Italians All Promised Assistance In Blockade

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Only after the League of Nations Council in secret session this morning decided to blockade Greece and take economic sanctions, did Greek Minister Karaninos produce a cable from the Greek government accepting the recommendations of the council and agreeing to evacuate Bulgaria.

When the council members arrived at the Palais D'Orsay at 11 o'clock the members learned that there was still no reply from Greece although the council's twenty-four hour ultimatum had expired at 8 o'clock last night.

President Briand of the council immediately postponed the public session for half an hour. The council went into secret session and decided to invoke paragraph one and two of article 16 of the covenant of the league.

British, Italian and French fleets were promised to enforce an economic blockade. Quinones De Leon, representing Spain, also announced that he would recommend that his government would lend the co-operation of the Spanish fleet. The Swedish delegate approved the sanctions and promised the Swedish government would support the council's action.

PRISON ROW IS GETTING WARM

Either Warden Frank J. Smith of San Quentin or George A. Van Smith, president of the State Prison Board, is expected to resign his position, as a result of the open warfare that was declared yesterday when Warden Smith posted a sign at the prison declaring that any employee of the institution who obeyed orders given by anyone besides himself would be immediately dismissed.

Smith's ultimatum is said to be aimed directly at the head of Van Smith, who is alleged to have gone over the warden's head in issuing orders to prison employees. Governor Richardson may be called upon to act as mediator in the dispute, but yesterday he refused to comment on the break between the two officials.

Warden Smith is said to have definitely stated to board members that he would fight to the finish and that he did not propose to resign to please anyone. It is up to Governor Richardson, who appointed him to determine where his authority ends and where that of Van Smith begins, Smith said.

It is generally understood at Sacramento that Governor Richardson and other members of the State Board of Prison directors are behind Smith. It is only a matter of speculation, however, over just how far Richardson will go in his support of the warden, since the law vests the authority of naming the warden in the prison board.

Thomas Cannon, a board member said that Smith "stands" well with the board and that anything he does to preserve discipline and harmony in the prison will have the support of the board.

Van Smith is reported to be on his way East.

DWIGHT F. DAVIS

Dwight F. Davis, of St. Louis, Mo., was sworn in as secretary of war by Chief Justice Taft, in the presence of Hon. John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, who resigned as secretary of war on account of ill health, Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, who saw service with the A. E. F., and Major General Robert L. Bullard.

President Coolidge in appointing Mr. Davis recognized the ability and magnified record that Mr. Davis made as acting secretary of war during the long period of illness of Mr. Weeks. Mr. Davis is well equipped to be a member of the president's cabinet.

Secretary Davis first went to Washington in an official capacity as a member of the war finance corporation, having been appointed to that position by the late President Harding. He served in this capacity for one year, and became assistant secretary of war upon the resignation of J. Mayhew Wainwright.

Mr. Davis, during his period of service as assistant secretary, displayed a keen understanding of the work concerning the army. The capable and forceful manner in which he handled the aviation matter impressed the president most favorably.

Not only does Mr. Davis know the needs of the military branch of our national defense from an office standpoint, but also from the practical side. He served in 1916 as a member of the American war relief commission. On duty in London when this country severed its diplomatic relations with Germany, Mr. Davis returned to the United States in order that he might take an active part in the events that were to follow. He had attended the first Plattsburg training camp and, consequently, was familiar, with actual military duty. He volunteered as a private in the Fifth regiment of the Missouri national guard and, because of his training and his capability for organization work he was appointed a captain, in charge of Company L. The regiment with which he was connected afterward became the 126th infantry and it went overseas in the early part of 1918. It was at the training camp that Captain Davis was made assistant chief of staff, division headquarters, and later was promoted to major. His regiment was in the hottest part of two of the great battles of the war, the Argonne and the St. Mihiel drive. Major Davis obtained the rank of lieutenant colonel and two citations were issued for bravery in action. Probably two of his most cherished possessions are the citations, which read as follows:

"He carried out the orders of his brigade commander in a manner utterly devoid of fear, under the most intense artillery and machine gun fire. At Baulny, on September 29 and 30, he recklessly exposed himself to the enemy fire in order to obtain information of great value to his brigade and division commanders."

"For gallantry in action near Baulny, France, September 29, 1918, in assisting in the reorganization and replacing of various detachments, under severe machine gun and shell fire."

In selecting Mr. Davis as secretary of war Mr. Coolidge has again demonstrated his desire to select men who will render the greatest service possible to their country.

The Scarf Collar on Both Sides or One Gives Becoming Neckline to Many New Autumn Coats.

SOME rather interesting collars are appearing on the new coats that are offered for late summer and autumn wearing. One maker of fur coats rather boast of the fact that the collar of one of his choicest wraps has been copied exactly from the collar of the coat that Napoleon wore at St. Helena! Such delving into the past for inspiration in this matter of coat collars is truly interesting. Some patriotic designer to give us a coat collar copied literally from the one that Washington wore when crossing the Delaware, or that worn by Paul Revere on his famous ride. But unfortunately all these historical coat collars might be anything but becoming and after all the most essential characteristic of any coat collar is becomingness. You choose or reject a certain model of coat very largely on the strength of its collar, because the collar coming next your face produces or precludes becomingness.

Just at present there is great promise in the new scarf collar, which has appeared on some of the very newest autumn coats. The sketches show three examples of this. At the top there is a cleverly made autumn coat of striped material. The shawl collar extends to the hem of the coat and buttons back at each side, forming pockets. Below it is a black satin collar that forms a scarf on one side only, and at the lower left-hand corner is a coat collar that looks as if it was a separate scarf laid about the neck. It is in reality three scarves—one of yellow, one of pink and one of tan, laid together and attached to form the collar of a brown velvet coat. The colors of the scarf match the colors in the printed frock.

This scarf type of collar has even been made use of by the furriers. A lovely fur wrap of light caracul has a wide scarf of the fur at one side. It is thrown across the front and over the left shoulder, hanging down the back to the waistline.

One thing you may have noticed concerning collars for both coats and coat frocks—their tendency to rise high at the back of the neck, framing the neck in a graceful outline. This is true of these various scarf collars as well as of the new Queen Anne collars of which you will doubtless hear more anon.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

"A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING"

A REACTION seems to have set in against the very strict diet for children and specialists recommended a decade and more ago, and that some specialists still recommend. And only the other day the mother of some young children told me that her doctor had told her that after a child had reached five or six, he "could eat a little of anything." The mother added that of course she did not interpret this to include pies and crullers. "Of course one wouldn't."

Then I remember that fifteen years or ten years ago when child and baby specialists were giving children a very rigid diet the young mothers used to look with supreme pity at their mothers or grandmothers who used to say that a "little of anything good wouldn't hurt a child—just a little until he gets used to it."

Now we hear some of the younger mothers, quoting some of the younger specialists, say almost the same thing. But they always speak with certain reservations. They take it for granted that when they make this statement you will expect tea and coffee, home brew, if you have it, pies and pastry, lobsters and crabs, caviare, mushrooms and a hundred other dainties of which adults partake with a more or less clear conscience. "Well of course, you must use your judgement," replies the young mother when you question the literal applicability of this new-old rule.

Beat the egg yolks well, add the salt and flour and milk. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake the omelet in a buttered hot griddle in the oven for ten to fifteen minutes. Fold over and serve the omelet immediately.
Pepper Salad: Green peppers may be used either in shreds or in rings, and to cut them to best advantage a vegetable shredder is useful. They can be used with lettuce alone or in combination with nuts, cheese or fruits. A particularly effective salad is made by placing a section of a grape fruit, then a strip of pepper and then a section of orange on a lettuce leaf.

Lobster Croquettes: One medium-sized lobster, 2 tablespoons of butter one level tablespoonful of flour, 1-2 cup of milk, one tablespoonful of cream, the juice of half a small lemon, one egg, breadcrumbs, pepper salt and frying fat.

Pick all the meat from the lobster and cut it up small. Melt the butter in a small saucepan, stir in the flour slowly, being careful to stir well so that it is perfectly smooth, then add the milk, stirring all the time until it has boiled gently for five minutes. Add a good sprinkling of pepper, half a teaspoon of salt, the strained lemon juice, cream, and the fish. Mix well. Turn the mixture on to a plate, and leave until cold.

Form croquettes, flour them, dip in egg and breadcrumbs and fry a golden brown in boiling fat. Drain, and decorate with parsley.

CHAPTER I

By Carolyn Wells

Connemara sat, absorbed in her own reflections. This statement is to be taken physically as well as mentally, for the reflections she saw were the subject of the reflections she thought.

She could easily see six or seven Connemaras, for her triplicate dressing-table mirror, aided and abetted by a hand glass, gave her various and sundry views of her hair. She studied it in deepest meditation, and critical at that, as who should say, a poor thing, but mine own.

Yet it was not a poor thing. Moderately long, moderately thick, moderately curly, its color was—well, Connemara had spent her childish days largely in stamping her foot and shouting back at teasing schoolmates, "It isn't red, it's orburn!"

Of course she had more of a proper name than that. She had been christened Constance Mary, but in her earliest attempts at conversation, lingual ineptitude had brought forth only Connemara, and the name had clung. Her other name was Moore.

For the rest, she was a slender little thing, light and graceful of movement, possessing more temper than temperament and more wit than wisdom.

These traits, in connection with the color of her hair in certain lights, had caused her to be dubbed Cayenne Fairy, and she lived up to the title.

her engagement in June and was married in October, the place and fortune of her rich aunt would eventually become her own.

It sounds melodramatic, in the telling, but Miss Celimena was so deeply in earnest, and Miss Connemara so deeply attached to the place, that the matter was serious to the point of tragedy.

Moreover, it was the next to the last day of June, and in another twenty-four hours the limit of the time appointed would be uncomfortably near.

Connemara was not entirely unprepared. She had narrowed her possibilities down to two, but between this precious pair she felt unable to make choice.

"Is everybody bobbing?" Aunt Celly asked, politely disinterested. She cared little for passing fashions. "Of course. You'll come to it yourself soon. But with me it's more than a whim or a notion; it's the whole game."

"Is it? Well, never mind that now. Are you going to announce your engagement tomorrow night?"

"Oh, yes," Connemara sighed. "Of course I am. But I've no idea to whom."

"Nonsense! You must know which one you love."

"That's just it. I love them both—I love them both. I can't live without both of them. You see, Aunt Celly, they're such perfect complements. It's like bread and butter or ham and eggs. Useless each without the other."

"Don't be silly!"

"I'm not. I want to marry both of them—oh, not both at once; I couldn't, of course. But say, first one and then the other. Only, I don't know which to marry first."

"Is everybody bobbing?" Aunt Celly asked, politely disinterested.

Her boudoir, where she sat, was harmoniously colored in green and white. Even the books were all bound in green, with white leaves inside. From the window she could look out on the green tops of waving trees and on down to the lake, green with reflected foliage.

But Connemara wasn't looking out of the window. She was looking at her own hair, in the repeated reflections of the mirror panels. "I don't know," she said, half aloud, "I don't know."

"Don't know what, Connie?" And a figure appeared at her open door. A calm, placid figure, that might have been, nay, must have been the inspiration for the poem that begins, "Serene I fold my hands and wait."

"Whether to bob my hair or not," and Cayenne Fairy turned anxious, troubled eyes toward her Aunt Celimena.

This lady was perhaps half a century old, was as bony as a suspender button, and was, with fine, patient resignation, an old maid. With the idiosyncrasies that spinsters are capable of developing, she had made up her mind that, having herself proved the inconveniences of single life, her niece should not experience them—she would forestall any such nonsense.

Now Miss Celimena Moore was a born forestaller, and when she set her mind to forestalling she did it efficiently and effectively.

Connemara was devoted to Moorelands, the big old country place in the pleasant hills of Connecticut, and Miss Moore merely decreed that if her niece was not married by her twenty-first birthday, the estate should pass into the hands of trustees to be used forever as a children's home. If, however, Connemara proved amenable to reason, and selected one from her shoals of suitors, and announced

"You talk like a fool, Constance Mary. I've no patience with you. But you'll have to make up your mind pretty soon, for I shall make no change in my will."

She walked placidly away, leaving the girl reflecting among her reflections.

The two men were complementary, though exact opposites. Bingham Carrington, a tall fair Viking of a man, was a Southerner, from Raleigh or Richmond or Knoxville or some such place, while Saltonstall Cabot Adams was a New Englander of purest ray, serene.

Both men were desperately in love with the Cayenne Fairy, and while Adams was a rich man, Carrington had an unappeased desire for ducks and drakes, and yearned to make them out of Connemara's money.

Yet Bing was a bright, merry, sun-shiny sort of person, while Saltonstall was so serious as to be almost heavy, so erudite as to be almost dull.

A side of Connemara's nature craved this cultural background, yearned for this companionship of wisdom and intellectuality, even while another side of her soul cried out for Bing's overflowing, all-embracing affection.

With an uncertain sigh, Connemara put up her unbobbed hair, and arrayed herself to greet a merry house party coming to spend the week-end.

They came: Poppy Glenn, a red-checked, red-lipped brunette, sporting the very latest style of bob cut. Rose Wraye, Madonna type, endowed with endearing young charms, but according to let scissors touch her long, fair tresses. Beside the two men there were Richard Bird, naturally called, Dicky, and Cecil Percy Knapp, the artist.

OUR THANKS

To the Shopping Public of All Contra Costa County

When we planned our new department store our whole desire was to make this a store that not only would be of greater service to the community but would be a source of actual pride to all who are interested in the remarkable progress of this section of the Bay District.

When we held our formal opening last Friday evening we enjoyed the fine reward that is appreciation of earnest purpose and unstinted effort. The people came by the thousands—they came with more or less of curiosity, and they departed with the knowledge that one now can shop in Richmond as successfully as in stores of which larger cities may boast.

To their best wishes they added heartiest congratulations—and then Saturday, on Monday and on Tuesday, the volume of business we did, showed how sincere were these wishes and congratulations and how widely it is understood that here is the merchandise, here are the varieties, and here are values.

Such interest and such response are so gratifying we tender our most earnest thanks—and renew our promise to serve the public even more exceptionally as our facilities are still further increased.

If you have not yet been able to visit this smartest and largest store in Richmond, the leading store in Contra Costa County, a revelation awaits you. Any day you come, every day you shop here, the conveniences you see here, the opportunities you find here, will be out of the ordinary—you can depend upon that.

New stocks are here, only new stocks and fulfilling practically every need of every man, woman and child.

SUITS FILED AGAINST SUHOR

Victor Suhor, former restaurant owner of Richmond, now serving a 90 day jail sentence in Martinez, for reckless driving, has been made the defendant in a suit brought in the justice court by Bertha Alexander. Miss Alexander claims that $27.85 is due her as wages earned as a waitress in the Speedy and Spuds restaurant now defunct. She is represented by Pierce and Carlson.

E. Epstein, proprietor of the building, has already filed an attachment suit for $80 against Suhor, claiming that that amount is due him for back rent. It is claimed that Miss Alexander was a partner in the business. If this is proved true Epstein's claim will be prior to hers.

A public auction will be held by Constable A. A. Alstrom next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock to dispose of the fixtures in the building to the highest bidder. Alstrom will hold the money realized from this sale until it is established in court whether or not Miss Alexander was working as a waitress or was a partner in the business.

The Dark Angel Is Entertaining Motion Picture

For real entertainment we can unhesitatingly recommend George Fitzmaurice's latest offering, "The Dark Angel," now on view at the California theatre. It is a First National picture presented by Samuel Goldwyn, and one calculated to please the most hardened picture-goer.

Ronald Colman is at his best as Hilary Trent, the young and handsome army officer, and the story concerns his love for Vilma Banky.

Ronald Colman in "The Dark Angel"

as the beautiful Kitty Vane. This is Miss Banky's initial bow to American audiences, and is a prophesy of a great future for the talented and beautiful young lady. She is the Budapest "find" of Samuel Goldwyn, while in Europe some time ago.

The direction is most capable, and the supporting cast, which includes Wyndham Standing, Frank Elliott, Florence Turner, Helen Jerome Eddy, Charles Lane and other well known players, is well chosen and capable.

Fitzmaurice, as usual, has overlooked no opportunity for artistic effects, his settings are magnificent, and he has injected some gorgeous episodes in natural color photography. Comedy relief is plentiful, and thrills galore are interspersed throughout the production, which is a screen version of H. B. Trevelyan's famous stage success of the same title.

The photograph is superb and the credit goes to George Barnes.

Other features include the latest eastern novelty "Indoor Radio Community Singing," with Larry Canelo

'THE REJECTED WOMAN' PLEASURES AT RICHMOND

"The Rejected Woman," which opened its two days engagement at the Richmond theatre last night, is undoubtedly the most pretentious production that has so far been screened at the Richmond theatre this year. It is a picture that has many points of appeal. There is romance, adventure, thrills, tense drama and real heart interest.

The action begins in Canada, where the audience is introduced to some fine snow scenes and the first thrill when the hero is injured falling down a steep bank during the terrific blizzard. Then after the hero and the girl are forced to remain in a cabin overnight and the former is driven away by the father after consenting not to kill him the scenes shift to Broadway and the production takes on an elaborate appearance presenting a series of lavishly furnished interiors of homes, offices, hotels and cabarets.

The picture offers a goodly quota of stirring episodes. The radio, is introduced in the early reels when the news of the death of the hero's father is sent into the ether from a Gotham broadcasting station and received in the northland by a friend who communicates it to the son. A novel idea and thoroughly modern.

Alma Rubens is an attractive heroine and acquires herself creditably in the emotional moments. Conrad Nagel has the role of the hero. An excellent cast of players support the stars.

"Great Guns," a Bobby Vernon comedy, and "Prisms" the screen magazine, are the short features on the program.

PERHAPS you know that awful feeling—the something that seems to grip our vitals when we are penniless. Most of us have experienced it at one time or another:

That feeling in your own heart is the best advertisement on earth. But perhaps this reminder will bring home to you again the importance of systematic saving. There can be no real success or independence without saving.

COLONELS HOLD
SERIES CHANCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28.—The San Francisco Seals had nothing in their system today, but a help of bad baseball, whereas Nick Callup, southpaw from the southern league had everything, which was more than enough to enable the Louisville Colonels to grab off a 6 to 2 victory from the Seals in something that had a remote resemblance to a game of baseball.

Oliver Mitchell went fine until he pitched the second ball of the game for the home guard. For the first couple of wild seasons it was doubtful if he would last long and after that it was a certainty. He was dispatched to the showers and replaced by Dave Crockett in the fifth, after the Colonels had made five runs.

This gentleman went fair for a couple of more innings. He was edged for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

The series is now standing San Francisco 4, Louisville 3. Tincup, the Big Chief, is apt to be shot into the game Thursday and another ace, De Berry, will probably be put into the final contest Friday, that is if the "Majah, Suha" win tomorrow.

If the Seals display their ability like they did today there will be a little world series pennant riding back to the Blue Grass section by the end of the week.

SONS SOCCER TEAM WINNER

Ed Pomeroy, former soccer coach of the Olympic club in San Francisco, now residing in Petaluma, has formed a soccer club in the latter city and has invited the teams that receive a bye in the Sunday games of the Eastbay to play him at Petaluma.

The Sons of St George Soccer team visited Petaluma and took on the team. The Sons won by 6 goals to 3.

It was a good game in spite of the lopsided score. E. Thompson of Richmond played his first game of the season with the Sons and strengthened the defense.

The two sets of forwards played well but the defenses were not up to par. There will be no league games next Sunday on account of the match wherein Scotland meets England. This match is attracting wide interest

NEW TIME TABLE

Children's Story Hour Well Attended

An eager crowd of over fifty children filled the rooms at the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon to hear the stories which are told each Wednesday at the Story Hour. The children who have organized into a service club known as the Light Bearers are making plans for Christmas activities for the poor children of Richmond.

The clubs are also practicing to sing at the Praise Service which will be held at an evening service some Sunday in November.

Much credit is due to Mrs. E. W. Haney, Mrs. L. R. Jones and Mrs. H. W. Berry who are in charge of these enjoyable afternoons arranged for the children. Hot chocolate and graham wafers are served to the children when they come to the church from school at 3:30.

Southern Pacific asks to build 62-mile line, Cornell to Alturas, to connect with Nevada-California-Oregon road from Klamath Falls.

LOCAL KNIGHTS VISIT BERKELEY

Richmond was well represented at the ceremonial in Berkeley last night in connection with the conferring of the most excellent master degree in amplified form by the Berkeley commandery, Knights Templar. Eminent Commander W. F. Fraser, of Richmond commandery, was at the head of the local delegation, which went to the ceremonial in a body.

ST. MARK WHIST PARTY SUCCESSFUL

A jolly crowd was present at the St. Mark's whist party held last night in the assembly hall of the church and a good time was had by all present. Prizes were awarded to Bert Flynn, J. Carey, I. Powers, M. Mattern, Mrs. Flynn, E. Murphy, J. Silva and H. Smith.

Girls Hi-Y Club Has Hallowe'en Party at Y. M. C. A.

Members of the Boys' Hi-Y club of the Y. M. C. A. made merry as guests of the Girls' Hi-Y club at a Hallowe'en party at the Y building last night. It was a costume affair. Costume judges were Miss Marion Meiers, Ralph Cunningham and Maurice Church. They decreed that Blanche Muhrlin attired as a senorita, was the best costumed girl and Ralph Giberson, representing a "flapper," the best costumed boy.

The prizes for the various games that were played went to Isabel Myatt and Helen Brecho. The affair was supervised by Mrs. A. W. Mueller, director of women's activities of the association. She was assisted by Iris Bird, Blanche Muhrlin, Roberta Beard, Ruth Cloud, Teru Moore and Ethel Koses.

Kiwanis Hears About British Labor Party

Ben F. Wilson, who has been in Great Britain for the last few years, assisting in the work of the British Labor Party, was the speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting yesterday. The talk was interesting, as he gave his own personal experiences with the British Labor Party.

The chairman of the day was John A. Long. The attendance prize was presented to Bob Root. Gus Lang walked off with the honors in the story telling contest. Ed Kearney donated the prize. The songs were led by Jack Barry.

The club received an invitation to attend the charter night of the Burlingame-San Mateo club on November 7.

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED FOR De MOLAY DANCE

A dance is being planned for early in December in the new Odd Fellows hall by Richmond chapter, Order of De Molay. At the meeting in Richmond hall last night the committee on the affair was appointed by Master Councillor Sidney Gnaya and delegated to lay plans.

The committee is composed of Lewis Crawley, Bradford Stevenson, Drenan Cryan and Carol Pitchford.

Due to the non-appearance of the main eventers and some of the lesser eventers, the boxing bouts, which were to have featured the meeting were called off. A number of the contestants were recently vaccinated for smallpox, so were unable to go on with the fights.

When John Alden and Priscilla started housekeeping

Back in the year 1621, Priscilla roasted her meat on a long iron spit hung in the fireplace. She turned it often to expose all sides to the heat.

Today how different! You can put your roast, vegetables and casserole dishes in your Wedgewood oven, set your automatic heat controller at 250 and go to a bridge party. Four hours free with no worry about dinner.

Once you own the latest Wedgewood, you'll find new delight in cooking. Proudly you'll offer your family your own rolls and cakes, light, tender, daintily browned, and your own savory roasts. Through the years, Wedgewood will faithfully serve you. It's built to last. Its front is cast iron, strong and enduring. Its oven bottom, cast iron. Its double oven walls, Armco-iron famed for endurance. Its closed cooking top and flush oven doors portray the modern ideal of range cleanliness and beauty.

This week is a particularly good time for you to see our special Wedgewood range display.
